It has been very correctly said that order or method is the secret of success of many wealthy men of the mercantile class. The above being true, the rule is applicable to the farming classes. What we mean by order is, "a place for every-thing and everything in its place." By everything, we mean all that a farmer uses in his business. A farmer should see that every rail and board about his premises is in its proper place; that his fences are in condition to prevent the entrance or exit of his own or other people's cattle without his consent. Every one who neglects this, neglects his peace of mind as well as subjects himself to losses that must be repaired by means that could have been otherwise profitably employed. I have known the cultivators of the soil to succeed well in maturing crops, but by neglecting to keep their fences in order, lose the most valuable part of their labors. But I am glad to state that such cases are not frequent in these times. In the next place the farmer should not allow his cattle that are used in the farm work to be scattered indiscriminately over his fields, as much time is lost in getting them to their places, and, as "time is money," it should be economized as much as possible. He should be careful to have his harness all in working order, his working cattle near his harness house; then but a few minutes are required for his day's plowing and hauling. His implements of every description, should be kept near his dwelling, that no time be lost in repairing those that are out of order.

Many-persons will say that they cannot find time to do all these things. Stop, dear reader, I know you can, because whenever you see a rail missing from your fence, go and put it back immediately, for then is the time. In case the rail should be destroyed, appropriate the first idle one you come to. If you should have no idle one, lose no time in procuring one, for if you do not, nine chances in ten you lose more by neglect than if you stop the plow long enough to make them. Whenever you are done using a plow hoe, rake, hay-fork, thresher, reaper or anything else, take it immediately to the barn—make this an invariable rule, and let all your men know it. The result will be that when anything is wanted, the person sent for it will know where to find it. I would have every farmer have some of the most necessary tools used in making and repairing his implements of husbandry, for I know every one who is able to own a farm, is able to have such things. The rainy season, in which much could be done in the way of making and repairing, is always lost to farmers, because they have not the implements of manufacture. During such times he might put all his utensils in excellent working order, whereas, if it was neglected until fair weather, he has scarcely had it done before another rainy season overtakes him. Thus all fair weather, in which he might have plowed, passes in repairing. To conclude: Farmers, preserve order in everything, and peace, prosperity, and health will accompany you through life.—Ohio Valley Farmer.

THE GRAPE.

the graft before any preparation for growth has commenced, and keep them in an ice house, or other cool place, until the leaves of the stocks have begun to expand. Before this time the stock will bleed "bleed," and prevent so certain too many—if they had all been killed a year ago stock will bleed "bleed," and prevent so certain success afterwards. As soon as the leaves begin | there might have been two hundred pounds to open, the bleeding ceases. The grafts are in- good fat pork in the country to balance against serted precisely as in fruit trees, and should be done as low down or near the root as practicable. Grafting clay or wax is then applied, and Dogs are a nuisance and should be taxed.

New Grafting Wax.—Take two ounces of common rosin, melt it slow over a fire, being careful not to heat so much as to make it throw with untorn throats. The increase of the dog with untorn throats. off its spirits of turpertine. When it becomes clear as syrup, add a little less than one ounce of alcohol, and mix well and put in a bottle at once, and cork tight. Alcohol is to be added sufficient to make the mixture liquid and keep it so, and when applied to trees it hardens at once, and forms an air-tight covering.

A VALUABLE GRAPE .- Mr. J. N. Shepherd writes to the Country Gentleman that he has a valuable grape which ripens from the first to the fifteenth of September, bunches medium size, being medium size, round, black, very sweet, juicy and thin skin, without pulp. It is hardy, and will bear good crops in any soil, with little or no attention. Two years ago, when the mercury stood for several days 25° to 30° below zero, and the Isabella and Catawba were killed to the ground, some of them even below the ground, this grape remained untouched, green and sound, and bore full crops the next season. Mr. Shepherd has made a fine wine from the grape, and offers to distribute the cuttings to ch as will cultivate it, and in turn distribute it for general horticultural good. The grape was originated by a German in Marion, Ohio, and is called the "Black German." It is a good table grape.

HOW WE DID IT.

Some twenty years since, my father bought a farm which was "worked too death," as the neighbors said. Well, we found out how it had been worked, when we put a heavy team and new plough at work, and the virgin soil was turned up six inches below the four inches worked to death. Our neighbors prophesied a failure, and when our crops vied with and exceeded their own, they were full of surmisings as to the wonderful strangers who were so successful in renewing such killed soil.

"What manure did you put on that field?" a neighbor asked my father, one morning, as they were looking at the deep green waving corn, growing so rankly therein.

"Ploughed deep! ploughed deep!" answered he: "there is nothing like ploughing deep, and thoroughly pulverizing the soil, to bring good crops in all kinds of weather."

That field had been used as a meadow some fifteen years, producing half a ton of hay to the acre. We broke it up deep, planted one year, sowed oats the next with clover and timothy and third cut two tons to the acre.

Another field has been used for oats the same length of time. We ploughed, but poor oats as so much deep, new soil was turned up, never having been exposed to the weather, a hard and almost impenetrable crust having been formed at the depth of three or four inches, where the plough had scraped for years.

As soon as possible, we grassed it, and had excellent meadows, where others thought nothing but a bad weed, called devilsgut, could grow. -Corres. Ohio Farmer TAR. A REMEDY FOR HORSE DISTEMPER .-Thomas W. Ladd, of Smithfield, Jefferson Co., Ohio, writes the Ohio Farmer, that he has found a remedy and cure for "distemper" in horses. He says: Having three colts sick with this disease, an experienced farmer told me to use tar, and he thought that the sick colts would soon recover, and that those who had not taken the disease would not have it at all, or but lightly I followed his directions to my entire satisfac tion. I gave the colts, morning and evening, as much as I could readily get into their mouths with a paddle. After a few applications, the sick ones commenced running at the nose, their appetites returned, and in a short time they had entirely gained what they had lost from disease.

The others never took it to my knowledge. "Some prefer mixing fish-oil with the tar; but I used it alone, and I believe it to be entirely sufficient, if the article be pure good tar. I would have no faith at all in the coal tar, now in use in some places."

REMEDY FOR LEAKS .- A correspondent of the Lynn News says:- "Some years ago I had a leaking 'L.'-Every northeast storm drove its waters in. I made a composition of four pounds of rosin, one pint linseed oil, and one ounce red lead, applied hot with a brush to the part where the L joined the main house. It has never leaked since. I then recommended the composition to my neighbor, who had a Lutheran window which leaked badly. He applied it and by this composition, and have recommended it this Jack not proving in foal can be sent back the proving in foal can be sent back the chimneys, windows, &c., and it has always proved a cure for a leak."

ITEMS FROM THE "COUNTRY GENTHEMAN."

This splendid weekly Journal, published at Albany, N. Y., at $2.00 per year, in advance and devoted to the "Farm, the Garden and the Fireside," always contains a large amount of the most interesting matter. Below we publish a few extracts:

COVERING FOR MILK-PANS.-I have a new plan for covering milk-pans in summer, to keep out dust, flies, &c. I take a piece of common brown sheeting, and cut it about three inches larger than the top of the pan, and make a wide hem, say an inch, around it. I then take large wire and bend it in a circle same size as the cloth, and run it into the hem, and fasten it there. When laid over the pan, the wire falls over the edge of the pan, to the effectual exclusion of dust or any other substance. II. A. T.

ARTIFICIAL HONEY .- I send you the following recipe to make loney, which can hardly be distinguished from the honey of bees:

Take of soft water 6 lbs., White moist (brown sugar) 20 lbs., Pure bees' honey 3 lbs., Cream of tartar 80 grs., Essence of roses 24 drops.

Mix in a brass kettle; boil five minutes; take it off, and add the white of two well-beaten When almost cold, add two pounds more bees' honey. A decoction of slippery elm bark will improve the honey if added while cooling. D. W. C. Towne. Morgan.

YEAST FOR BREAD OR CAKES .- In a quart of boiling water, stir sufficient wheat flour to make a smooth thick batter; while hot, stir in it 4 ounces white sugar and a tea-spoonful of salt. When cold, put in sufficient yeast (say near a tea-cupful.) to cause the mass to ferment. Lay it by in a covered jar for use. Half a tea-cupful is enough to make two large loaves. To renew the yeast when used up reserve a tea-cupful.

This recipe my wife considers her own invention, as she has never seen it. It is simple and efficient for raising buckwheat cakes and bread -very light and very white if the flour is good.

THE FARMER'S CREED :- One of our exchanges gives the following first rate advice under the heading of "The Farmer's Creed:"

"We believe in small farms and thorough culivation. The soil loves to eat as well as its owners, and therefore to be nurtured. We believe in large crops, which leave the land better than they found it-making both the farm and farmer rich at once. We believe in going to the bottom of things, and therefore in deep ploughing, and enough of it—all the better it with a subsoil plough. We believe that the best fertility of any soil is the spirit of industry, enterprise and intel ligence-without this, lime and gypsum, bones and green manure, marl or plaster, will be of little use. We believe in a clean kitchen, a neat wife in it, a spinning piano, a clean cupboard dairy and conscience. We firmly disbelieve in farmers that will not improve; in farms that grow poor every year; in starved cattle; in farmer's boys turning into clerks and merchants; in tarmer's daughters unwilling to work; and in all farmers who are ashamed of their vocation.

Hogs vs. Dogs .- "What a dog lives upon will keep a hog." If anybody doubts the truth of the saying, let him kill his useless dog and put GRAFTING THE GRAPE.—Grafting the grape can be performed without difficulty. First, cut He will find in a few months that he has a fine fat porker fit to be eaten, a use the dog could every dog so set aside, which would be no considerable item in the present scarcity of supplies. While every farmer keeps his dog, and every slave his dog, and every free negro his two or with untorn throats. The increase of the dog population accounts for the scarcity of sheep .-N. C. Planter

> Wheat, although considered by some as a native of Sicily, originally came from the central table-land of Thibet, where it yet exists as a grass, with small, mealy seeds. Rice was first brought from South Africa, whence it was taken to India, and thence to Europe and America.

----MOTHS IN THE CARPET .- A lady in Brooklyn

"Please tell me and other readers of The Tribune, how, if there is any way, to prevent moths destroying carpets. One of mine is getting damaged very much, especially near the edge, by the wall, under the piano, and in spots where they are not likely to be disturbed. Is there any way to prevent this destruction without taking up the carpets and having them beaten out, which is inconvenient at this season?"

Yes; very easy. Buy half a pound of gum camphor, for twenty five cents, and that will save all the carpets in your house for a year, by placing a few little crumbs under the edges of carpets without moving them.
